AS TO STOLEN PROPERTY. A Sharp Letter From Petersburg Attorneys and Mrs. Moore's Response.

An interesting question has come before the Commissioners concerning the right of pawnbrokers to dispose of property which has been stolen.

Messrs. French & French as attorneys for W. C. Flynn of Petersburg, Va., recently called attention to the fact that their client lost a valuable diamond pin on the train in the vicinity of Richmond, and the same had been pawned in this city. Mr. Flynn caused an investigation to be made through the detective corps, and the pin was located, according to the letter of Messrs. French, in the pawn shop of one Burnette. Flynn came to the city and identified the pin, but before being allowed to take his property he was told he would have to pay $100, that being the amount alleged to have been advanced on the pin. An effort was made to obtain the pin, but the dealer refused to give it up. Messrs. French say they have asked the police department to get the pin, but are met with the excuse that they cannot recover it, as the pin was stolen from a non-resident. Concluding their letter, Messrs. French say:

"We desire to state that if such a practice has been allowed to prevail itself in this District the sooner it is strangled the less the inducement will be for the thief to bring his booty here, and the sooner the community will be secured from the depredations of thieves. We therefore urge that the pin be returned to its owner, and that the pawnshop be closed, and that the dealer be punished."

"We also desire to state that the pin was stolen from a non-resident. Concluding their letter, Messrs. French say:

"We desire to state that if such a practice has been allowed to prevail itself in this District the sooner it is strangled the less the inducement will be for the thief to bring his booty here, and the sooner the community will be secured from the depredations of thieves. AT THE BRITISH LEGATION.

Pleasant Reception at Mr. William Ballantyne's Reception at the British Legation. The British Legation was the scene of a most delightful social gathering on Thursday evening, the 19th inst. The reception was given by Mr. William Ballantyne, who was assisted by his wife and daughter. The guests were most numerous and of high social position. The evening was spent in the most pleasant and agreeable manner. The reception was a great success.

THE MATTER OF THE PIN.

The matter was referred to Major Moore for report, which he submitted today, and is as follows: The statutes relating to the District, in providing for the care and disposition of such property as shall come into the custody of the police, recognize three classes—property lost, property abandoned, and property stolen (see sec. 409, Rel. D. C.). They also provide a method by which such property may be returned to its owner, and that the owner should obtain such order, and the theft must have taken place in the District of Columbia, and the property must have been brought before either of said courts. To take the case into court there must be an arrest. If no arrest, an owner requiring the use of his property may obtain a writ of habeas corpus, and twice the value of the property, with two real estate sureties resident in the District of Columbia, the bond to be approved by the Commissioners. There is no other method by which property alleged to have been stolen can be disposed of in the District.

A thief and the goods it is alleged he has stolen can be taken into another jurisdiction on a requisition, as the accused and the evidence against him must go together, and the would be the order of the Supreme Court of the District. It is charged that this pin was stolen in another jurisdiction. There was no arrest and no call for the evidence by any court to prove it stolen.

The junk law was made for and applies to the District of Columbia, it is fair to presume, and does not take cognizance of interstate matters. It is not a criminal matter, but a civil one. The claimant should bring the purchaser of the pin before the Police Court on a warrant charging him with the sale of stolen property, which would enable the court to take cognizance of the case, and to give an order of restitution; otherwise it is a civil case between the owner of the pin and the pawnbroker, to be determined by a jury for his opinion.

I suggest, however, that the matter be referred to the attorney of the District of Columbia for his opinion.
